L. Stein, charged with embezzling $95.35 from the Virginia Iron and Metal Company on December 8, was acquitted yesterday in Hustings Court, Part 2, after fifteen minutes' deliberation by the jury. The case was submitted without argument, L. O. Wendenburg representing the accused and Commonwealth's Attorney Charles L. Page the prosecution.
On one of the counts, that for embezzling $50, it was alleged that Stein had entered it into his expense account, which he made to the company after a business trip to Fayetteville, N. C., with intent to embezzle. Stein claimed that L. Lavin had borrowed this amount from him.
Justice Maurice's Court.
George Stein, white, pardoned about two weeks ago by Governor Mann from serving a ninety-day sentence for being drunk, appeared before Justice Maurice yesterday morning for being drunk again the night before and creating a violent disturbance at his home. He was sentenced to six months on the roads.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE FACULTY CHANGES

Teaching Force to Be Strengthened for Coming Session.

BOARD ISSUES STATEMENT

Enters Emphatic Denial of Rumors Affecting Institution.

Important faculty changes and additions are announced for the coming year at the Woman's College. Dr. James Nelson, who has served the institution for so many years as president, and who was recently re-elected to that position by the board of trustees, proposes to have a stronger faculty than ever before, especially in the departments of elocution and music.

One of the most valuable additions to the faculty will be Mrs. Fannie Bibins, of Trinity Park, N. C., who has been appointed to the chair of modern languages. Mrs. Bibins took A. B. and M. A. degrees at Trinity College; was awarded a diploma at the conclusion of a course of study of the French language at Caen, France, and also won high honors at the Teachers' College in New York, which institution she attended for several sessions. She speaks and writes both French and German and is in addition said to be a brilliant teacher of Latin and English. Mrs. Bibins comes recommended by Rev. W. J. Lynch, D. D., of Durham, N. C., and by Dr. Bruce Payne, of the University of Virginia, who paid her a very high compliment in referring to her as the best educated woman of his acquaintance.

Department of Music.
Former pupils of the music department will regret to learn that Miss Mabel Hudson will not return. However, her place promises to be most acceptably filled by Miss Marie C. Hill, of Hopkinsville, Ky. Miss Hill is a graduate of Berlin College under the administration of Dr. Edwin Harrison, who is well known in Richmond. She is also a full graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, and a teacher of wide experience.

The chair of mathematics will be filled by Dr. Lewis T. Stoneburner, formerly of the Richmond High School and the State Normal at Farmville. Dr. Stoneburner has the enviable reputation of having won the highest honor ever awarded at Washington and Lee University in the branch of mathematics. He is regarded as a man of extraordinary attainments.

Another new member of the faculty will be Miss Dora M. Gilbert, of Knoxville, Pa., who will devote her whole time to the teaching of philosophy and pedagogy. It is an interesting fact that the Woman's College was one of the very first schools in the country to establish a chair of pedagogy. Dr. Martin, who will make his specialty of this branch for the coming year, won the degree of master of arts at Columbia University, and since his graduation has been offered a chair at that institution.

As a teacher of elocution and physical culture, it is questionable if Miss Nellie Hudson, of Luray, is surpassed in the South. Miss Hudson will teach these branches at the college the coming session, and President Nelson and his associates at the institution are fortunate in being able to secure her services. Miss Hudson is a graduate of several of the leading schools.

Miss Emma Whitfield returns from the Stetson University, Florida, to her former position as teacher of art. Miss Whitfield is a distinguished graduate of several institutions, and studied art in the leading centers of this country and Europe.

Prospects of College.
In making announcement of these faculty changes, President Nelson and members of the board once again took occasion to contradict reports that may have affected the welfare of the institution. Speaking with reference to the future consolidation of the Woman's College and the new Richmond College, they stated that the old college would be discontinued during the years that must elapse while the new institution is building were absolutely without foundation.

Official Statement.
A special committee, composed of members of the board, gave out this official statement:

"At a recent meeting of the trustees of the Woman's College, we, the undersigned members, were appointed to make a statement in the press concerning the condition and prospects of the Woman's College. This was thought desirable in order to clear away any misapprehension or confusion that may have arisen in the public mind respecting the plans and purposes of the board.

"We wish to say in the first place that there will be no change in the business management. Dr. Nelson will have entire charge and control. We feel ourselves fortunate in being able to retain the services of one whose eminent skill and ability have brought our institution to its present high grade of efficiency. It is to us a matter of pride that the Governors of Virginia during the last sixteen years have been uniform in setting a fine estimate on our president as a wise leader in the educational enterprises of the State.

"We may be allowed to say, also, that our board is composed of a number of prominent educators, lawyers, ministers and business men of the city and State. They ought to be and are intelligently loyal to the best interests of education.

"The relations between the president and the trustees are of the most pleasant character. The board's devotion to the college appears to grow stronger, and at this particular season they wish to pledge anew their unflinching devotion to the college and its welfare. They have a grateful sense of the high rank the institution has won before the public. So prominent an educator as Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the University of Virginia, has classed it as one of the three best colleges for the education of girls in our State.

"Our trustees are fully of the opinion that when the college is turned over to the Baptist Education Commission of Virginia it will be an asset of very great worth. The moral and economic values have been accumulating for more than half a century. We recognize that our beautiful city is rapidly becoming an education center, and anxious to avail ourselves of all the advantages growing

BY ALL ODDS, OUR GREATEST SALE!

THERE ARE exciting times in store! Thousands and thousands of choice items, the most attractive offered anywhere, have been re-assorted. Surplus stocks, odd lots, mussed and soiled pieces have been regrouped and in almost every case placed at even lower figures than last week.

We will not carry a single item over! Monday, when the second week of this great sale opens, everything from first floor to roof will be marshalled to meet the onslaught of the eager buyers who will respond to this call of extraordinary economy! And remember this! These goods are no special purchase bought to sell cheap! They are standard Dreyfus quality—the season's happiest productions—and in most cases there are but one or two of each design. For this reason we can give but few items and brief descriptions here. Arrange to come Monday. Come with expectations at their highest. You will not be disappointed.

POLICE COURT CASES

Negro Heavily Punished for Running a Gambling Resort.
Andrew Washington, colored, charged with running an objectionable place at 214 North Third Street, resorted to for the purpose of gambling, was fined $20 and placed under $100 security for six months in the Police Court yesterday morning. An attachment was issued for E. J. Kelley, who is charged with having stolen $5 from H. H. Hartzell.
W. H. Bolling, charged with carrying a pistol shop at 123 East Cary Street, was fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days in jail. He noted an appeal.
The case of Harry Penney, white, charged with breaking into the shop of G. W. Denby and into the place of W. D. Shingers and stealing a certain quantity of tools, was continued to July 1.

To the Victims of Morphine

I am a physician of a large practice in Virginia until disabled through the use of morphine. I took 60 to 70 grains of morphine and 40 to 45 grains of cocaine daily, in addition to alcohol. My body was covered with the punctures of the hypodermic needle as well as my arms and lower limbs. At one time I spent ten days without food or a moment's sleep, and in desperation was debating suicide as preferable to either my deplorable state or insanity.

I was urged to come to Richmond. I came and was treated. On the fourth day of my treatment the awful "cravings" were effectually destroyed; my pains began to subside; my suffering abated; my appetite returned; my complexion cleared up; I began to sleep and for the first time in years I began to feel natural. The chains that bound me a captive were snapped asunder, and I am free. I wish every physician thus afflicted and all others to know that they can be saved from their deplorable condition. If any poor sufferer from morphine wishes to be cured, and will write me, I will gladly furnish him or her all the information he or she needs.

SPEND LARGE SUM FOR EQUIPMENT

University College of Medicine Announces Ambitious Plans for Laboratory Work.

While the rebuilding fund campaign has been occupying the attention of the public, and the forthcoming faculty election arousing the speculation of students, the scarcely less interesting and important task of providing an entire new equipment for the University College of Medicine has been kept busy during the past few weeks. Final disposition of the major portion of the work was made at a meeting held on Friday night, and within a short time supplies will begin to pour in from many quarters.

Probably the most notable advance contemplated by the college in the matter of equipment is a determination to extend still farther the plan of furnishing a complete outfit for each student in the various departments. In many laboratories it has been the custom, so far as the more expensive part of the apparatus is concerned, for groups of students to alternate in the use of certain instruments, an equipment of moderate size thus sufficing for an entire class or for a number of classes. As far as possible this will be avoided in the plans for the new college. For instance, each student hereafter will have a microscope for his own personal use, which will be exclusively in his charge and for the proper care of which he will be responsible to the college authorities. This item alone represents an expenditure of about $5,000, the list of supplies including 165 new microscopes.

Equipment for Students.
At the meeting on Friday night the committee placed orders amounting in all to about $12,000, and authorized others in the sum of approximately $4,000. The supplies include projection and photograph apparatus, anatomical models and charts, X-ray apparatus, dental equipment, obstetrical equipment, pharmacology and physiology equipment, stock chemicals, general hardware, etc. This material will be used in fitting up the dissecting halls and the following laboratories: histology and pathology, applied pathology, physiological chemistry, pharmacology, medical pharmacy, chemistry, bacteriology, botany and plant histology, pharmacognosy, dispensing and dental laboratories. Where this has been possible the supplies have been purchased from Richmond houses; otherwise the orders have gone to Philadelphia and New York firms, through which much of the apparatus is imported, chiefly from Germany and France.

The problem of selecting the working machinery for a great college is by no means simple, particularly when, as in the present instance, the destruction of the old equipment has necessitated the purchase outright of practically a complete new outfit, from test tubes and section lifts to microscopes and X-ray apparatus. The work has been done thoroughly, however, and in the matter of laboratory facilities the new college will not only be far ahead of the old, but will also, to say the least, take equal footing with any other school of its size in the country.

death of United States Senator John W. Daniel:
Headquarters United Confederate Veterans,
New Orleans, La., June 30, 1910.

The general commanding makes official announcement of the demise of another distinguished figure in Confederate circles. Senator John W. Daniel, after an illness extending over several months, peacefully entered into rest at Lynchburg, Va., last night. He was born in that city September 5, 1842, and had, therefore, nearly attained his sixty-eighth birthday.

He entered the Confederate service as second lieutenant in May, 1861, and served with distinction throughout the conflict, surrendering as major and adjutant-general and chief of staff to General Jubal A. Early. He was wounded four times.

He studied law after the cessation of hostilities, was admitted to the bar, and soon had a most lucrative practice; but his fellow citizens, recognizing his great worth, sent him to the Virginia House of Delegates, and thereafter conferred on him almost every office of honor within their gift, making him United States Senator in 1887, which office he held at the time of his death.

He discharged the duties of the various offices he filled with ability and fidelity, ever laboring for the best interests of his beloved Southland and the welfare of his Confederate comrades. But he will be best remembered for his wonderful power of speech, his charming utterances, delivered throughout the South. His most successful effort, possibly, was the address he delivered at the French Opera House at the time of the reunion held in this city in 1893. It was a polished and finished oration, full of life and fire and abounding in allusions to the bravery and fidelity of his comrades in the great war. It may be many years before the country will produce such a master of language.

By command of
GEORGE W. GORDON,
General Commanding.
